2313 II. George Frederick Wright, b. in Manlius, N. Y., 23 Nov. 1807; 6967
a fur-dealer; married, 28 Ap. 1839, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, Laura Louisa Parsons, who was born in Sandisfield, Mass., 27 Feb. 1823, dau. of Joseph Gibson and Roxana Lucretia (Case) Parsons. He was first employed, as an accountant, in Auburn, for two years, or more; then, for a time, in the same capacity, in the State Prison at Auburn; after which he went to Cleveland, Ohio, where he remained two years. Thence he moved to Fort Wayne, Indiana, and there engaged in the dry-goods trade, continuing for seven years, till the Spring of 1842, when he removed to Oshkosh, Wisconsin, and settled on a farm, which is now nearly in the centre of the city. Here he engaged in the fur-trade, which, with other enterprises, occupied his attention, till he died of consumption, at his residence on Algoma Street, 6 Jan. 1869. The following extracts from an editorial notice of his death, published in an Oshkosh paper, show something of his character, and of the estimation in which he was held: "Probably the death of no other person could create here a sensation so profound, and so sorrowful, especially among the older residents of the city."

"The old log-house, in which he first lived, has been carefully preserved, and still stands in the extensive and beautiful grounds which surround the more modern dwelling. He was one of the sagacious few who early foresaw the destiny of the spot on which a city has grown up around him. During all the twenty-six years of his residence; in which he saw the canoes and Indian trails, of the early days, disappear, giving place to the steamboats and railroads, which the needs of an increasing civilization and a growing population demanded; and watched the wilderness become the busy, thriving city; he pursued the even tenor of his way, foremost in every good word and work; open-handed, generous, always dispensing an unlimited and most hearty hospitality; the friend alike of old and young, of rich and poor; respected by all; esteemed by a large circle of more intimate friends; and warmly loved by the few on whom he lavished the wealth of his great affections."

"During all his residence here, Mr. Wright has been extensively engaged in the purchase of furs, and by steady attention to business, and a keen shrewdness that was always mingled with his jolly, unfailing good-nature, together with the increase in value of his real estate, he accumulated a respectable fortune, notwithstanding the heavy losses he experienced in some public enterprises. His business frequently required tedious journeys through the frontier settlements; and probably no man was so well known, from the Wisconsin river on the West, to away up into the peninsula of Michigan on the North, in city, town and hamlet, down to the settler's rude cabin, or the ruder wigwam of the Indian in the still far woods; and wherever known, he was trusted and loved, and his coming hailed with delight."

He held the office of justice of the peace, and other County offices. His widow was living at Oshkosh in 1874.

2314 III. Aramantha McDorman Wright, b. in Manlius, N.Y., 25 March 1810; married, 27 Sept. 1830, at Ellisburgh, N. Y., Allen Whitney, son of John and Patty (Chase) Whitney. See the account of him for the remainder of her record. 7036 2347

2315 IV. Josiah Wright, b. in Manlius, N. Y., 14 Aug. 1812; died in Manlius, 13 Sept. 1812, and was buried there.

2316 V. Betsey Whitney Wright, b. in Manlius, N. Y., 2 Jan. 1814; married, 18 Sept. 1831, in Ellisburgh, N. Y., Erasmus Darwin Finney, who was born in Henderson, N.Y., son of Zenas Finney, and g. son of Sylvester and Rebecca (Rice) Finney. They settled at Sacket's Harbor, N. Y.; and moved, in 1846, to Oshkosh, Wis., where she died, 17 May 1845, and was buried. He died at Menasha, Wis., in Ap. 1859, and was buried there. 6976

2317 VI. Emeline Theresa Wright, b. at Fleming, N.Y., 25 Aug. 1816; married, 8 March, 1838, at Oshkosh, Wis., Joseph Jackson, an architect, born in Ireland, son of Robert and Anna (Stewart) Jackson. They dwelt at Green Bay, Wis., for four years; at Southport, Wis., one year; at Milwaukee, Wis., one year; and then settled at Oshkosh, Wis., where they were living in March 1875. He has been, for three terms, mayor of the City of Oshkosh; city-marshal and chief of police, for fifteen years; treasurer of the State Land Office. 6979

2318 VII. William Wallace Wright, b. at Fleming, N. Y., 7 July 1819; a farmer; settled in Oshkosh, Wis., where he was married, 23 July 1843, by Rev. Cutting Marsh, Presbyterian, to Mary Elizabeth Evans, born in Parkman, Ohio, 29 Feb. 1824, dau. of Daniel and Mary (Need) Evans. He was living on his "Lakeside Farm", adjoining Oshkosh, in 1874; having been, for thirty-one years, a member of the M. E. Church of that city, and, most of that time, a trustee, class-leader, and chorister, besides holding several town and county offices. 6987

2319 VIII. Philip Van Rensselaer Wright, b. at Fleming, N. Y., 23 Dec. 1823; a mill-owner; married, 1 July 1849, at Oshkosh, Wis., Hannah Drake Coffin, dau. of William and Nancy (Marston) Coffin, of Deerfield, N. H., where she was born about 1828. They dwelt at Oshkosh till 1875; and then settled at San Buenaventura, Cal., where they were living in June 1877. 6998

2320 IX. Electa Rebecca Wright, b. at Fleming, N. Y., 27 June 1825; died at Oshkosh, Wis., 15 Ap. 1842, unmarried.

2321 X. Henrietta Almera Wright, b. at Ellisburgh, N.Y., 1 Jan. 1830; a graduate of Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis.; married, 1 May 1850, 6999

at Oshkosh, Wis., by Rev. Hiram Freeman, Congregational, to John Walter Scott, a jeweller, who was born at Meadville, Penn., 3 Sept. 1823, dau. of James and Margaret (McNamara) Scott. They settled at Oshkosh, where he had already lived since 1848. He was a useful member and officer of the M. E. Church; and, "by his quiet demeanor, gentlemanly deportment, strict integrity, and upright conduct, he won the respect and confidence of all who knew him." He served throughout the Mexican War, unhurt. At the beginning of the war of 1861, he raised a company in Oshkosh, called the "Scott Volunteers", of which he was captain. The company being full by 24 Ap. 1861, it was assigned to the 3d Reg., Wisconsin Volunteers, and went at once to the seat of war. He became major, and afterward lieut.-col., of his regiment; and was killed in the battle of Chancellorsville, 1 May 1863. A local paper said of him: "From the first he has been in the Army of the Potomac, and has participated in most of the terrible battles between Washington and Richmond, and in the neighborhood of the latter city. At the battle of South Mountain he was severely, and at one time it was thought mortally, wounded in the arm and shoulder, which for some time disabled him from active service. He returned home for a short time on furlough; but restless and impatient to be at his post, he hurried back long before his physical condition would permit him to enter the field, disregarding the personal inconvenience experienced from his wounds, that he might give his personal attention to the wants and necessities of his fellow soldiers.

"He was a thorough disciplinarian; and as he yielded unquestioning obedience to his superiors, so he exacted the same from his subordinates. He was watchful of the interests and welfare of those in his command, and he was always at his post when duty called him—whether it was one of ease and security, or one of peril and danger.

"The name of Col. Scott deserves a prominent place among those who have fallen in the present conflict. He died, like a true soldier, in the hottest of the fight, at the head of his regiment; and his remains now lie in a soldier's grave, in the soil of the Old Dominion."

She was married (2d), 5 July 1869, at the Summerfield M. E. Church, 186 Biddle Street, Milwaukee, Wis., by the pastor, Rev. Henry S. White, to Timothy Elijah Crane, a lumberman, who was born at Eddington, Maine, 24 June 1813, son of Allen and Mary (Coggeshall) Crane. They were living at Oshkosh, in Aug. 1874.

zealous and liberal supporter of the same sect. He was postmaster of Adrian from 1843 till 1848. He bought, in 1848, the land for Oakwood Cemetery, at Adrian, and for fifteen years had the entire charge of it. He has taken an interest in all that pertained to the improvement of Adrian; and was, in 1875, president of the Union Hall Association, vice-president of the Michigan State Insurance Company, the oldest in the State, and vice-president of the First National Bank of Adrian. He was, from 1859 to 1868, a member of the School Board (most of the time its president), and, during that time, aided in building three of the finest school-buildings in Michigan. He was, for a long time, one of the trustees of Adrian College, assisting it largely with his means. He was a delegate to the Democratic Convention at Baltimore, 1–5 June 1852, which nominated Franklin Pierce for the presidency. During the war of 1861, he aided largely in obtaining recruits to fill the quota of Adrian, advancing to the city large sums of money, fourteen thousand dollars at one time, determined that no one should be forced from his home by a draft, while money could be raised to pay those willing to go for the bounty. He and his brother, William Augustus Whitney, are among the oldest inhabitants of Adrian, having lived there since 1828. In early life he showed the usual versatility of western pioneers, being successively grocer, land-speculator, dry-goods merchant, railway-contractor, dealer in country produce, and banker.

2558 IV. Rebecca Whitney, b. in Shelby, N. Y., 22 July 1815; moved with her parents, in 1828, to Adrian, Mich., where she married, 31 March 1833, Edmund Burris Brown, a farmer, born 22 Jan. 1809, son of Jacob and Anna (Smith) Brown, the latter residing in Somerset, Mich., at the time of his marriage. In 1834, they settled in Hillsdale Co., Mich., in a log-cabin without door, window or floor, two and a half miles from their nearest neighbor, and five miles from the next; where they cleared, the first year, seven acres of land on which the timber was blown down. Here he killed forty-two deer, chopped one hundred and twenty acres of heavy timber, and heard the nightly howling of the wolves, till Oct. 1839, when, having sold the farm for four thousand dollars, they moved to Nottawa, Mich., where he died 17 Nov. 1850. He was an assessor before the towns were organized, and had to visit every inhabitant of Hillsdale Co., following the section-lines with his rifle on his shoulder, and being from home three days at a time. Their nearest grist-mill was twenty-five miles away; and once he had to go sixty miles with an ox-team, taking eight days to go and return, with his grist of corn. She married (2d), in 1852, at Nottawa, Cornelius Kline, a farmer, who was born at Glen, N. Y., 3 March 1817, son of William and Jane (Van der Hoef) Kline. They were still living at Nottawa in June 1877, enjoying an abundant property. 7581

Neale, Baptist, to Lucy Balch Fletcher, dau. of Nathaniel B. and Elizabeth Starkie (Rowe) Fletcher, of Newburyport and Boston, Mass. She was born at Newburyport in 1814; and died at Atlanta, Ga., 29 March 1871. He was living at 407 Whitehall Street, Atlanta, in Aug. 1875, and had charge of the Walker Street School. The following extracts are from his account of himself, as published in the Rockwell Genealogy, pp. 31–33: 8650

"In relation to myself I would say, after being brought up on my father's farm in Cornwall, Vt., I entered upon a college course of study, graduated at Middlebury, Vt., in 1834, at twenty-four years of age. I immediately repaired to Norwalk, Conn., where I took charge of an academy. In 1836, I entered the theological department of Yale College; married in New Haven, Conn., 1837, Miss Lucy B. Fletcher, of the same city.

"I then assumed the charge of an academy in Southington, Conn.; was blessed, while there, with a glorious revival, in which nearly all my pupils were converted.

"In 1838, I accepted the secretaryship of the 'New England Sabbath School Union.' Being troubled with a bronchial affection, I went south at the suggestion of Dr. Jackson, of Boston. For two years, 1839 and 1840, I had charge of the Female Department of 'Barton Institute,' Mobile, Ala. Suffering there from yellow fever, I returned to Vermont, took charge, as Principal, of the 'Literary and Scientific Institute' at Brandon, Vt. In 1843, I again went to Alabama, taught one year in 'Howard College,' Marion; and in 1844, I went to Cahaba, Ala., and acted as Principal of the 'Male and Female Academy' for a term of four years. In the Fall of 1848, I removed to Carlowville, Ala., where I spent four years in charge of a Female Academy. Up to this time, I continued to preach as opportunity presented, but, by medical advice, I relinquished preaching altogether, and in 1853, I assumed, as Principal or President, the charge of the 'Masonic University' at Selma, Ala. This institution having failed in its monetary affairs, I went again to Mobile, and for two years had charge of the 'Latin High School,' the classical department of the 'Barton Academy,' and at that time numbered among the public schools of the city. In 1857, I went to Livingston, Sumter Co., Ala., where for six years I had charge of a very interesting Female Academy. Soon after the breaking out of the war, I repaired again to Mobile, and invested all my available means in the manufacture of salt; but this arrangement was soon broken up by the surrender of the forts which guarded the entrance of Mobile Bay. Being a non-combatant, I was again forced to leave the city, and was a resident of Selma, at the time of the destruction of that city and its public works by the Federal forces under Gen. Wilson.

"All my worldly possessions having been destroyed by the misfortunes of war, I was compelled, with my wife and only child (Henrietta Elizabeth), to begin the world again de novo. In 1867, I came to Atlanta, Ga., and after spending four years teaching a private school of girls, in a brick school-room of my own construction, I was called, at the inauguration of our present public school system, to take charge, as principal, of Walker-Street school, having something over four hundred pupils. This position I still hold, and, although I find it to be a responsible charge for one of my years (now sixty-two), yet it is a noble work, and one in which I trust, by divine assistance, I may be able to do a great deal of good. My wife, Lucy F. Rockwell, died of paralysis in this city, on the 29th of March, 1871."

Chil. of Stephen Brownson and Eunice (Wildman) Benedict. 902

married there, 20 Sept. 1812, Rory Starr, a carpenter and joiner, born at Ridgefield, Conn., 22 July 1786, son of Peter and Deborah (Weed) Starr. They settled in Danbury.

He was an industrious and intelligent man, with not even common-school advantages; but early formed the habit of reading—never sitting down in the house without a book; and often, after a full day's work, spending half of the night in reading—and having the power to retain the important part of what he read, his mind became remarkably well stored with knowledge, which he was able to impart to others in the fewest possible words. He was an early, enthusiastic, yet quiet Methodist; for many years, an acceptable local preacher; and his influence did much to build up the Methodist Episcopal Church in that region. He represented Danbury in the Conn. Legislature for one year; and was, for one term, a member of the Senate of that State.

They died in Danbury (he, of erysipelas, 27 Feb. 1845, after a brief illness; she, 30 Ap. 1850, in her 61st year), and were buried in Wooster Cemetery.

3123 II. Susanna Benedict, twin, b. at Danbury, Conn., 23 Ap. 1790; married, 26 May 1812, William De Forest, of Ridgebury, Conn.[1]

3124 III. Lemuel Wildman Benedict, b. at Danbury, Conn., 12 Oct. 8927
1792; married, 11 May 1814, Jerusha Russell Ives, born at Danbury, 18 May 1793, dau. of Dea. Isaac and Jerusha (Benedict) Ives, and g. dau. of Zadok and Jerusha (Russell) Benedict.[2] He died at Danbury, 6 March 1853, "aged 60 years and 5 months"; and was buried at Miry Brook graveyard.

3125 IV. George Benedict, b. at Danbury, Conn., 15 Ap. 1795; a 8930
minister of the Baptist Church; married, 30 March 1816, Nancy Force, dau. of Jonathan Force, of New Jersey. She was born 24 March 1795; and died in New York City, 18 Nov. 1864. An obituary says of him: "The Rev. Mr. Benedict was distinguished as one of the most popular and successful preachers in the denomination to which he belonged. The Union Baptist Church was the first with which he sustained the pastoral relation in this city (New York), and under his ministrations soon outgrew its place of worship and erected the church on Stanton Street; that house proved inadequate to accommodate the congregation he attracted, and eventually the communicants could not find room. Necessity thus compelled a portion of the church to withdraw, which they did with him as their pastor, and purchased the church on the corner of Norfolk and Broome Streets, which church he saw burned to the ground a short time before he died. The congregation built on Norfolk Street, and in a few years sold to the Methodists, and is now flourishing uptown as the 5th Avenue Baptist Church. The character of Rev. Mr. Benedict was distinguished for its gentleness, meekness and patience, and yet possessed of sufficient firmness to resist the encroachments of error. As a pastor, he was to the aged a companion and friend, to the young an example and adviser; as a preacher, he was faithful and prayerful, admonishing his hearers with an earnestness that made him eloquent, and a kindness that would have been closed against denunciations. As a man, he was kind, forgiving, compassionate and just. In the social circle, his cheerful disposition rendered him the joy of the household." He died 28 Oct. 1848, and was buried in Greenwood Cemetery.[1]

Merwin, of the New York Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. They settled in New York, and have always lived there except from Ap. 1867 to Ap. 1869, when they dwelt at Flushing, N. Y. They were living at 8 West Washington Place, New York, in Nov. 1875.

3566 III. William McKendree Bangs, b. at New York City, 15 Dec. 1810; a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church; grad. at the University of Ohio, in 1830, with the highest honors, and was immediately engaged as professor of languages in Augusta College, Kentucky; was licensed to preach when only eighteen years old; and, in 1831, returned home, and joined the New York Conference on trial; in full connection, in 1833; ordained deacon in 1833, and elder in 1835. He was pastor at Windsor, Conn., till 1832; at Cortlandt, N. Y., till 1834; at Milan, N. Y., till 1835; at Jamaica, Flatlands, and New Utrecht, N. Y., till 1836; at Riverhead, N. Y., till 1837; at Waterbury, Conn., till 1838; at Spencertown, N. Y., till 1839; at Salisbury, Conn., till 1840; at Lenox and Lee, Mass., till 1841; at Durham and Middlefield, Conn., till 1842; at Granby, Conn., till 1843; at Lenox, Mass., till 1845; at Yorkville, N. Y., till 1846, when he was placed on the "worn-out list" till 1847; at Huntington, N. Y., till 1848, when he went south, for his health, till 1850; at Greenwich, Conn., till 1851; and at Astoria, N. Y., till his death, which took place at his father's house in Thirtieth Street, New York, 5 Sept. 1852. He was buried in Greenwood Cemetery. He did not marry. A sketch published in the Minutes of the Annual Conferences, for 1853, p. 211, says: "He was endowed with rare gifts of mind, cultivated by a liberal education and habits of reflection. His powers of analysis, reasoning, and judgment, were of the highest order. His command of language, exhibited in the apt and expressive choice of words, was rarely equaled. His sermons bore the impress of a great mind, and were characterized by the simplicity, purity, and faithfulness of his design. Had he been unfettered by disease, he would have been placed in the most eminent positions; and, by his death, places have been made vacant which his mental capabilities qualified him to occupy."

3567 IV. Nathan Bangs, b. at Sharon, Conn., 21 Oct. 1813; a bookseller and auctioneer; married in New York City, 26 Oct. 1836, Susan Orr Buckmaster, second dau. of John and Dorothy (De Talconet) Buckmaster, of New York. He died at 33 East Thirtieth Street, New York, 17 Dec. 1856, and was buried in Greenwood Cemetery. She then returned to Philadelphia, and was living there in March 1876, at 1512 Arch Street. 9721

3568 V. Mary Eliza Bangs, b. at Rhinebeck, N. Y., 30 Oct. 1815; died unmarried, in Irving Place, New York City, 21 Oct. 1857, and was buried in Greenwood Cemetery. "During her early childhood, she evinced great seriousness of thought, ofttimes surprising her parents with the depth of her remarks on religious subjects, causing them to feel that their little daughter was indeed a child of rare excellence and acquirements. When she was in her thirteenth year, she felt the need of a direct witness of the Spirit, that she was indeed born again. She sought the Lord with her whole heart, and was most powerfully blessed with the assurance of her adoption. From that time until her death, she never lost the witness that she was a child of God."

He was mustered out with his regiment, at New Haven, Conn., 31 July 1861, having taken part in the battle of Bull Run. He enlisted, the same year, in Co. E, 8th Reg., Conn. Vol. Infantry, as a corporal; took part in eleven battles; and in that near Petersburgh, Va., 7 May 1864, received a severe wound in his head, and had his ankle broken. As soon as the wound in his head had healed, he returned to his regiment; but the injury to his ankle making him unfit to march, he was offered a discharge, a transfer to the Invalid Corps, or promotion as commissary-sergeant. He accepted the latter, remained with his regiment, and received his second discharge 15 Feb. 1865. An obituary says: "He was an honest, industrious, Christian gentleman of the highest stamp; kind and benevolent to all, public-spirited, and ever ready to assist in any undertaking that would be to the future good and welfare of our town. We look upon the death of Mr. Keeler as a great public loss; few men possessed his excellent characteristics and traits as a generous, high-toned citizen. His manners were unostentatious, quiet, and pleasant, but his actions positive; and there seemed to be a firmness of intention which could not be turned aside until his wishes were accomplished. He was a prominent and consistent member of the Congregational Church, faithful in executing all church duties devolving upon him, and has enjoyed the utmost confidence and respect of his fellow-citizens."[1] 9929

Chil. of Eli and Mary (Whitney) Smith. 1143

3789 I. Benajah Smith, b. at Northford, Conn., 27 Dec. 1797; a farmer; settled at Northford; married there, in her father's house, 27 Sept. 1821, by Rev. Matthew Noyes, Congregational, to Angeline Linsley, born at Northford, 11 March 1798, dau. of Deacon Munson Linsley. They settled at Northford, where he died, 8 Jan. 1837, and was buried. 10249

3790 II. Eli Smith, b. at Northford, Conn., 13 Sept. 1801; grad. at Yale College, 1821, S. T. D., Williams College, 1850; a clergyman, and for many years a member of the American Mission at Beirût, Syria, where he translated the Bible into Arabic. He married at Norwich, Conn., 21 July 1833, Sarah Lanman Huntington, born at Norwich, 18 June 1802, dau. of Dea. Jabez and Mary (Lanman) Huntington. She had been engaged in missionary work for some years before her marriage; and two months after their union they embarked for Malta, on their way to Syria; and reached Beirût, their field of labor, 28 Jan. 1834. In June 1836, her health having failed, they went to Smyrna, and were wrecked on the way; and six days of exposure so aggravated her illness that recovery was impossible. She was removed to Boojah, a village about five miles from Smyrna, 7 Aug. 1836; and there died, 30 Sept. 1836. She was buried in a quiet place at Boojah, and a suitable monument was erected.[1] He married (2d), 10253

at Rochester, N. Y., 9 March 1841, Maria Ward Chapin, born there 31 May 1819, dau. of Hon. Moses and Esther Maria (Ward) Chapin.[1] She went with him to Beirût, as a missionary of the A. B. C. F. M., where she died, 27 May 1842, and was buried in the Mission Cemetery. He was married (3d), at Northampton, Mass., by Rev. E. P. Rogers, D. D., 23 Oct. 1846, to Hetty Simpkins Butler, born at Northampton, 15 Sept. 1816, dau. of Daniel and Elizabeth (Simpkins) Butler. He then returned to Beirût, where he continued his labors until his death, 11 Jan. 1857. He was buried in the Mission Cemetery at that place. His widow, who was living at East Windsor Hill, Conn., in 1868, said of him: "My dear husband's record there is a long story of earnest, faithful working for his Master; and when called to leave this work, his mental powers seemed to me in their prime. His mind and habits of study were peculiarly fitted for translating; and our Arabic Bible is his monument."

The following editorial notice of his death appeared in The New York Observer, for 26 Feb. 1857:

"The church and the world are called to mourn together over the loss of one of the men of the age, a minister, a missionary, a philanthropist, a scholar—one whose learning, talents, piety and heroism have placed him in the front rank of modern benefactors of their fellow-men, and whose works will remain a monument to his memory, and a blessing to the human race. The Rev. Eli Smith, D. D., died at Beirût, Syria, Jan. 11th, 1857.

"He was born in Northford, Conn., Sept. 13, 1801; graduated at Yale College in 1821, and at Andover Theological Seminary in 1826. He entered at once into the service of the American Board, and embarked at Boston, May 23, and arrived at Malta, July 13, 1826. He visited Egypt and Syria in the Winter of the same year, Greece in 1829, and in company with Rev. H. G. O. Dwight, made a great exploring tour in Armenia in 1830 and 1831. He visited the United States in 1832, and in 1833 returned to Syria. In 1836–7, we find him in Turkey and Asia Minor; and in 1837–8, with our countryman, Dr. Robinson, performing their great journey in the Desert and Palestine. Soon afterward he visited the United States again; and from 1840 onward, with little interruption except a briefer tour with Dr. Robinson over parts of the Holy Land, he has been intently laboring in his translation of the Holy Scriptures.

"For more than a quarter of a century, his name has been identified with the operations of the American Board of Foreign Missions in the Levant; and his repeated visits to this country, rendered necessary by the state of his health, or by the exigencies of the cause, have made him the personal acquaintance and friend of thousands who love the missionary cause; so that it may truly be said of him that no one of the corps of missionaries in the foreign field was better known, or more endeared to the American churches, than he.

"His tone of mind, his habits of thought and research, his extensive travel and intimate familiarity with the manners, customs, languages and ideas of the East, combined to fit him eminently for the work to which he was specially devoted during the latter years of his life, the translation of the Holy Scriptures into the Arabic tongue. This was the labor of his heart, as well as of his mind and hands. Three years ago, he welcomed us to his house in Syria, and led us into his study, where his years of manly vigour were fast wearing into untimely age in the laborious prosecution of the translation. On his table were spread out the great Arabic dictionaries, and other helps which he had gathered with much expense and toil—some of them never having been printed, and therefore occupying almost countless pages of manuscript, through which he must chase the words of Holy Writ to find the symbols of the idea in the Arabic mind. Here was the huge dictionary of Feirnzabadeh, and the Tcshil, Jbmalih Grammar, with the Commentary of Ashmuny. Near him was the Pentateuch, in a very ancient Arabic translation, from the Medicean press at Rome in 1591, a work of great value in rendering other parts of Scripture into that language, and to which Dr. Smith was constantly referring. The windows of his study looked out upon the missionary burying-ground, and the grave of Pliny Fisk, the first American missionary to the Holy Land; and as he stood there, and spoke of the death of former laborers in that field, Dr. Smith said with great simplicity, and yet with deep sadness in his tones, that he hoped his life would be spared until he had completed the translation on which he was engaged. His health was then feeble, and it became more delicate after he left Syria. By the advice of his brethren, he made a journey northward, visiting other parts of the Eastern field, and returned with somewhat recruited strength to his post and work. But his work was nearly done. So, day after day and month after month, when exhausted strength required that he should rest from his labors in the bosom of his family and friends, did Eli Smith make his weary way to his study, and add a few more lines to that immortal work; which, though left unfinished, is to remain as the monument of his usefulness and to perpetuate the name of the author among the Arab races of the East.

"He had completed the New Testament, the Pentateuch, and some of the Prophets. A part of the New Testament has been printed, and the books of Genesis and Exodus.

"It was to be expected that the end of such a life as Eli Smith's would be peace. Gentle in his spirit, calm, scholarly and chaste in his mental exercises, with all his faculties attuned by the soothing influences of scholastic retirement and the hallowed charms of domestic affection, and chastened sorely in the school of affliction; having voluntarily put away from him the tempting lures of ambition which his fame and learning held forth—for he might have held any high place among the scholars of the times, to which he aspired—and having consecrated himself to the single work of preaching the gospel in the Arabic tongue, and leaving that gospel in that language for those who should come after him, he was willing, nay, desirous, to live till he should complete the labor of his hands—but if otherwise ordered, he was equally willing to die. 'For me to live is Christ's, but to die is gain.' And so he died. His mind was full of peace. He saw the approach of the angel of death, but had no fears. Christ was with him and strengthened him in the hours of dissolving nature, and gave him a sweet release.

"We shall attempt no analysis or outline of the character of Dr. Smith. As the companion of Dr. Robinson in his successive journeys of exploration in the Holy Land, he has made most important contributions to the literature, geography and topography of Palestine; and Dr. R., in his preface, bears the fullest and highest testimony to Dr. Smith's learning and ability as constantly brought to bear upon the researches which have made their joint work the most important treasury of knowledge respecting the land of the Bible that has been produced in any country or age. As a preacher, a missionary and Christian, he was modest, humble and persevering, never obtruding himself, but always promoting his Master's work. As an Oriental scholar, he had few, if any, superiors. His attainments made his correspondence sought by men of eminence in many lands, but his mind was never diverted from the labor of his life, in which it pleased God to permit him to die.

"Thus one after another of our great and good men, our beloved and honored missionaries, are passing away. Let us be followers of them who through faith and patience have inherited the promise."

3791 III. Hannah Smith, b. at Northford, Wallingford, Conn., 25 July 1805; married there, in her father's house, 12 July 1831, Lent Serajah Hough, a minister of the Congregational Church, son of Serajah and Elizabeth S. Hough, of New Haven, Conn., formerly of Wallingford, where he was born 20 Jan. 1804. 3793 II. Jason Frisbie, b. at Branford, Conn., 28 July 1814; a master-mariner; married Melinda Riley, of New Haven, Conn., but had no children. He sailed for the West Indies, 25 Feb. 1862, in the bark Grapeshot, of which he was captain; and nothing has been heard from him or his crew. Portions of her wreck were seen 2 March 1862. His widow lived at New Haven in 1868.

3794 III. Lynde Frisbie, b. at Branford, Conn., 8 Aug. 1816; was for thirteen years a seafaring man, sailing to the West Indies and New Orleans, making fifty-eight voyages; married in Branford, where her father then lived, 22 Aug. 1841, Sarah Spencer, born at Branford, 16 Oct. 1823, dau. of Bela and Polly (Bradley) Spencer. He built a house at 28 Webster Street, New Haven, Conn., where they lived for six years after marriage; and then returned to Branford, where they lived in 1868. He is now a carpenter. 10270

Chil. of Hervey and Grace (Whitney) Smith. 1146

3795 I. Samuel Whitney Smith, b. at North Haven, Conn., 27 Nov. 1819; a lawyer; went with his father, in 1836, to Newark Valley, N. Y.; removed thence, in 1848, to Ithaca, N. Y., where he spent the rest of his life, acting as justice of the peace for about fourteen years, and as judge of the Court of Sessions for four years; married at Lansing, N. Y., by Rev. George Spaulding, Presbyterian, 18 Ap. 1850, to Ann Maria McGowan, dau. of James McGowan, of Ithaca, where she was born 11 March 1819. He died in Ithaca, 2 Nov. 1869. 10271

3796 II. William Hervey Smith, b. at North Haven, Conn., 17 Ap. 1823; died at North Haven, 6 Sept. 1825, and was buried there.

3797 III. William Hervey Smith, b. at North Haven, Conn., 17 Sept. 1826; a druggist; settled at Mesopotamia, Ohio, where he married, in Oct. 1852, Caroline Sheldon, of Mesopotamia; but had no children. Early in 1862, he enlisted in Co. K, 6th Ohio Cavalry; served under Fremont, in his short campaign in Western Virginia; was transferred, in July 1862, to the Hospital Department; and was clerk of the hospital at Fort McHenry, Baltimore, where he died 30 Sept. 1862, and was buried in the Post Cemetery. His brother, Samuel Whitney Smith, since dead, said of him: "My brother William was a good man, good husband, affectionate brother and son; was in high repute with his townsmen, as a citizen and magistrate; and, as his superior officer wrote, 'he died the death of a Christian soldier.'" She was living at Mesopotamia, Ohio, a widow, in 1868.

Chil. of John and Statira (Farrell) Whitney. 1147

3798 I. George Lewis Whitney, b. at Branford, Conn., 2 Sept. 1807; 10272
a printer, editor, and commercial correspondent; married by Rev. A. D. Eddy, at Canandaigua, N. Y., 18 Jan. 1831, to Lucinda Barlow Williams, born at Canandaigua, 16 May 1810, youngest dau. of Dr. William Augustus Williams.[1] She died at Canandaigua, 20 May, 1861. The following, from the Ontario Repository, Canandaigua, 23 May 1861, is a part of her husband's tribute to her memory:

"If our columns bear evidence of the absence of our usual attention upon them, this week, the reason is furnished in the fact that for several days past, we have been chiefly confined to the sick-room and dying-bed of a long-cherished and most intimate companion,—one who had stronger claims upon our affections, our sympathies and personal attention than all earthly objects besides. The wife of the editor of this paper, previous to her death, had been sick for several weeks, from a painful and incurable disease—a cancerous affection of the lungs—which terminated fatally last Monday morning. She bore her sufferings with a Christian fortitude and resignation, and with a confidence of being able to hold out to the end, which afforded a beautiful and convincing testimony in support of the religion, which for more than thirty years, she had professed and consistently practised in all the relations of life. As wife, mother, friend and neighbor—and as a member of the community in all its varied relations, the promptings of her kind heart were never confined to the cold forms or mere conventionalities which too often control the acts even of the charitable and the good. Her heart was a perennial fountain of benevolence, open at all times to everybody, as the closing scenes in her life fully attested."

The Detroit Daily Advertiser, of 28 May 1861, said: "To many citizens of this place this will be a sad announcement. In her residence here of ten years prior to 1840, she endeared herself to a large circle of acquaintances, many of whom still live to remember and mourn for her. To an ardent and generous temperament, a singularly unselfish and self-sacrificing disposition, and a mind and heart of transparent truthfulness and integrity, she united a talent of keen observation and lively powers of description, which among friends who knew her intimately, gave great zest and vivacity to her conversation. But it is as a true and warm-hearted friend, a tender wife and mother, and a sympathizing benefactor to the neglected and the needy, that she will be especially held in affectionate and grateful remembrance. As a Christian, her life of humble and undoubting faith was crowned by a death of signal triumph. Leaving a pleasant home, a husband and six affectionate children, she could yet say, 'It is not such a terrible thing to die!' As the scenes of time faded, her faith lit up the dark valley with the bright presence of her Saviour, until 'the shadow of death was turned into the morning,' the morning of an unending day."

[1] "Dr. William A. Williams was from Wallingford, Conn. He entered Yale College at the close of the Revolution, and graduated [in 1780] at the early age of sixteen. After passing through a regular course of medical studies, he commenced practice in Hatfield, Mass.; but in a few years, in 1793, emigrated to Canandaigua, established himself in a large and successful practice, which he retained until near the close of a long life. He died in 1834."—Turner's History of Phelps and Gorham's Purchase, p. 175.

She was buried in Canandaigua, the day after her death, from the Congregational Church (Dr. Dagget's), of which she had been a member for more than twenty years.

He was married (2d), by Rev. Mr. Bushnell, at Fremont, Ohio, 7 Aug. 1862, to Anna Roosevelt MacEnally, born at New York City, 8 Nov. 1835, dau. of James and Caroline (Roosevelt) MacEnally,[1] and g. dau. of Cornelius L. and Ann (Lockwood) Roosevelt. After his death, she returned to Canandaigua, and was living there in 1868.

The following, from The Advertiser and Tribune, of Detroit, 28 June 1867, shows the principal facts of his life:

"Almost equally as startling as the announcement of the death of Judge Witherell on Wednesday, was that of the demise of George L. Whitney, Esq., yesterday forenoon. Mr. Whitney had been quite unwell all Winter and, only a week or two since, was seriously meditating a trip to Europe as the only possible hope of restoration. He was then quite feeble. Last week he was taken to St. Luke's hospital, from which time he continued to fail till about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, when he ceased to breathe. His family, who have for the past year been residing at Pontiac, were with him at the time of his decease. His remains it is intended to remove to Canandaigua, N. Y., for interment.

"George L. Whitney was born in 1808, consequently was 59 at the time of his death. He learned the printer's trade and was employed in a New York office. In 1829 the only newspaper published in Detroit was the old Detroit Gazette, the Democratic organ. The Whigs needed a mouth-piece, and, in the year mentioned, the late Oliver Newberry, in their behalf, visited New York for the purpose of securing the material for an office, and a printer to take charge of it. Mr. Whitney was recommended to him as a young man worthy and competent. With his assistance a font of type and presses were bought, all the funds being supplied by Mr. Newberry and his associates. Mr. Whitney was 21 years of age when he thus removed to Detroit. In November of that year (1829), the first number of the Northwestern Journal was issued, and so admirable was its typographical appearance and general newspaper characteristics, that it at once assumed the position of leading paper in the Territory. For three years it was issued weekly, then semi-weekly, and at last, in June 1836, under the title of the Advertiser, the paper became a daily. Mr. Whitney did not, at that time, assume to manage the political course of his paper. For that, some of the ablest talent in the Territory was secured, and Wm. Ward, Maj. Rowland, Franklin Sawyer, and, among others, the late Judge Chipman, were successively at the political helm. Mr. Whitney must, for a time, have done well, for he assumed the responsibilities of a family, and erected for his own use the comfortable residence on the corner of Brush and Larned Streets, now occupied by Hon. Wm. Warner. But the severe financial troubles of 1836–7 seriously affected the business of the young publisher, and by degrees his office fell into the hands of Hon. A. S. Porter, for whom Mr. Whitney continued to publish the Advertiser until the fall of 1839, when he disposed of all his interests in Detroit, and removed to Canandaigua, N. Y. There he again established himself in business as the publisher of the Ontario Repository. There he remained for a number of years. The Repository was a capital village paper, and no doubt afforded a comfortable income. With the formation of the Republican party in 1856, however, Mr. Whitney had no sympathy; and continuing to issue a Whig paper after the Whig party was dead, he very naturally found his business dwindling away. In 1859 or 1860, too, he had the misfortune to lose his wife. He became unsettled, sold his paper, and in 1861 removed again to Detroit. Without capital, he found it more difficult to engage in remunerative business than on his former advent here, and he was this time fain to accept a salaried situation on the newspaper of which he had been the founder. Subsequently he established a commercial periodical, which, however, did not succeed. He then became the editor of the Commercial Advertiser, a weekly paper issued in this city, and on this he remained up to the time of his death.

"Mr. Whitney was a pleasing writer, and an industrious compiler of statistical information setting forth the great natural resources of his adopted State. During the last few years, he has been the valued Detroit correspondent of several American and European journals, and no man has probably done more to show up the great advantage Michigan offers to emigrants and settlers, than he has done in these letters. The State owes him a debt in this behalf that few will ever appreciate. Socially he was a genial and pleasant companion, and in his family an indulgent husband and father. His favorite amusement was music, for which he possessed talent in a high degree. In his earlier years, he excelled as an organist, while his merit as a composer is evinced by numerous published pieces, chiefly of sacred music, that are still to be found in our various popular collections.

A beautiful tune of his, entitled 'Canandaigua,' and adapted to the favorite words by Tom Moore—

'Come, ye disconsolate, where e'er ye languish,
Come to the mercy-seat, fervently kneel!
Here bring your wounded hearts, here tell your anguish,
Earth hath no sorrow that heaven cannot heal,'

has a place in the Jubilee, and will, we doubt not, be thought worthy of reproduction in future musical collections.

"As a business man, Mr. Whitney was never really fortunate, and at the time of his death we regret to say his affairs were far from being in a prosperous condition. He leaves a young wife, and, if we mistake not, a son and two or three daughters. His second son, a soldier of one of our regiments of regulars, was killed on the bloody field of Gettysburg, just four years ago."

From another paper, printed in Detroit about the same date, we learn that "he held the position of postmaster at Canandaigua, under President Tyler."

"Mr. Whitney was an Episcopalian, and was organist and a member of the vestry of St. Paul's Church for the last ten years of his first residence in Detroit."

"Politically and socially, Mr. Whitney was a man of moderate and liberal views, and during the later political revulsions has classed himself as a conservative, not having attached himself to either party. Although naturally industrious, his generosity and warm-heartedness stood in the way of his accumulating property. He continued his active editorial labors up to about a week ago, although suffering for a long time previous from failing health. His demise, however, was sudden and unexpected, and the fact shows how far a naturally robust constitution may become exhausted and destroyed by mental labor before the impending crisis gives warning of its approach. Mr. Whitney had been for some time engaged in preparing matter designed to compose the initial number of a work to be entitled the Michigan Quarterly Register."

"His funeral was attended at St. Paul's Church yesterday afternoon, and his remains taken thence to Canandaigua."

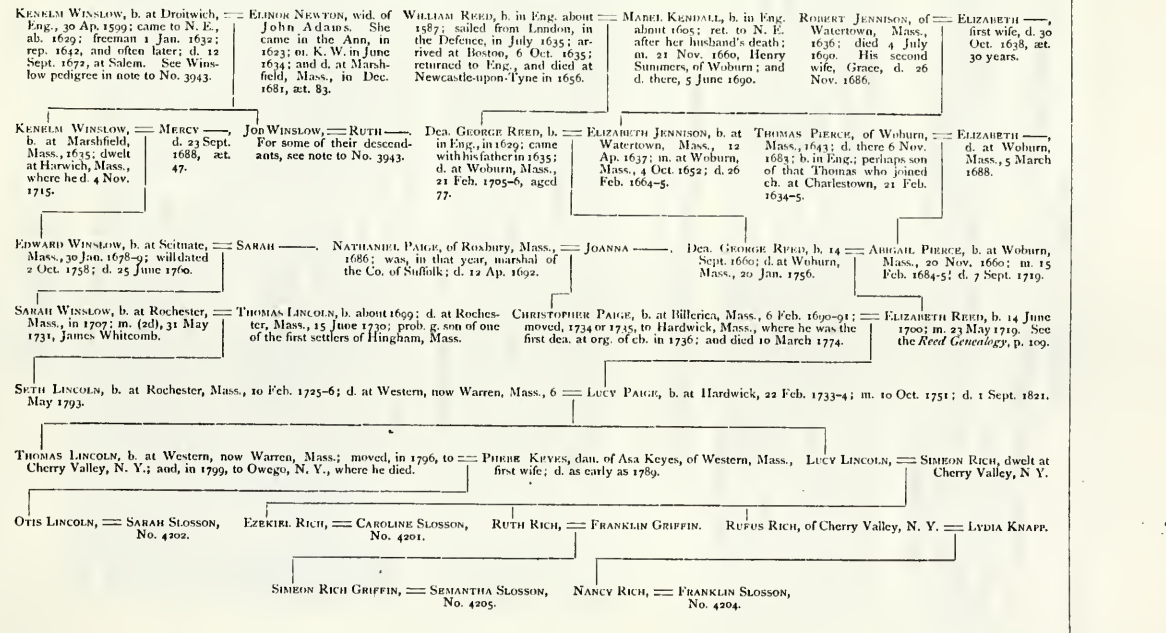
ANCESTRY OF OTIS LINCOLN, AND OTHERS.



Lincoln, in Newark Valley, 19 Jan. 1832, by Rev. Marcus Ford, Congregational, to Nancy Rich,[1] born at Cherry Valley, N. Y., 24 Dec. 1807, dau. of Rufus and Lydia (Knapp) Rich. They settled in Newark Valley; joined the church there, 6 Jan. 1833; and moved, in 1833, to Owego, N. Y., where they died (she, 30 March 1855; he, 2 Ap. 1867), and were buried in Evergreen Cemetery. The Owego Times, of 11 Ap. 1867, said: "He was supervisor of the town of Owego several times, and in all public official positions, discharged his duties to the entire acceptance of the public. He was appointed, in 1862, to a clerkship in the Comptroller's office in Albany, a position for which he was eminently qualified; and there he labored, as few could or would labor. It is acknowledged by all that his application to business and extra duty faithfully done, were the cause of his illness and subsequent death. For nine months before his death he was confined to his room, and suffered severely; yet his confidence in an early-sought and long-trusted Redeemer never wavered."

4205 V. Semantha Slosson, b. at Berkshire, now Newark Valley, N. Y., 20 Sept. 1808; bap. 3 July 1820; married at the house of Otis Lincoln, in Newark Valley, 16 Jan. 1843, by Rev. 4266 VI. Edwin Miles, b. at Apulia, N. Y., 30 May 1806; a farmer; married at Fabius, N. Y., 25 Sept. 1827, Julia Powell, dau. of William and Abigail (Morey) Powell, of Pompey, N. Y., where she was born 17 June 1810. They dwelt at Mandana, in Skaneateles, N. Y., till 1833; at Fabius till 1865; and then moved to 147 West Genesee Street, Syracuse, N. Y., where he died of pulmonary consumption and disease of the heart, 14 March 1867, and was buried at Oakwood Cemetery. She was living in the same house, in Aug. 1875. The following extracts are from the Syracuse Journal: "In 1862–3, he was a member of the firm of Stimson, Miles & Co., wholesale grocers and provision-dealers in this city. After the death of his son, Marcus M., who was a partner in the publishing firm of The Journal, Mr. Miles became a member of the firm, and remained in this connection till his death. During this period there was never an occurrence to mar the perfect harmony and cordial co-operation that existed in the management of The Journal. He was for many years a Justice of the Peace in Fabius; and, for several years, represented that town in the Board of Supervisors. 11173

"In all the relations of life, public and private—as a husband and father, as a friend and counsellor, as a citizen and public officer—and in every business and personal connection, his acts and conduct were most exemplary, his duties were discharged with scrupulous fidelity, and his kindly offices will live in memory as long as the grateful beneficiaries shall survive. He was a Christian, and the plan of his life was formed on the precepts of the faith he professed. Few men are so faithful to their principles as he was, and none exceed him in their efforts to live up to their professions."

4267 VII. John Perry Miles, b. at Apulia, N. Y., 9 May 1808; a physician; married Abigail Cardner, of Skaneateles, N. Y., who was born 21 Nov. 1815. He died of consumption, 4 Nov. 1837, at Apulia, and was buried there. He is remembered as "a man of fine ability and culture, who was fitted to adorn any station in life, and who bade fair to be eminently useful in his profession." She died at Skaneateles, 30 Ap. 1839, and was buried near her husband, in Apulia Cemetery. 11177

4268 VIII. Sally Miles, b. at Apulia, N. years and resigned at the end of the first; Judge of Probate, 1857–60; Circuit Court Commissioner, 1855–6; Justice of the Peace, from 4 July 1840 to 20 Feb. 1858, and from 4 July 1866 to 4 July 1870; and Notary Public for twelve years. While acting as County Clerk, he read law, and was admitted to practice as Attorney and Counsellor at Law, and Solicitor and Counsellor in Chancery. He was appointed Commissioner of Drafting in 1862, and resigned on receiving the appointment of Assistant Provost Marshal for the Fifth Congressional District; which he also resigned, 24 Aug. 1863, on accepting the commission of Quarter-Master of the 11th Reg., Mich. Vol. Cavalry, which regiment he helped to raise at Kalamazoo, Mich. He was with the regiment at Lexington, Ky., and Camp Nelson, near Hickman Bridge, from 23 Dec. 1863 till Ap. 1864; was then detached and sent to Louisa, a post on the line between Kentucky and Virginia, where he acted as Post and Division Quarter-Master, till 10 July 1864, when ordered to report to Maj. Gen. Burbridge, at Lexington, by whom he was appointed Judge Advocate of a Military Commission. In Aug. 1864, he was appointed Assistant Judge Advocate of the Department, and served as such about two month at Louisville, Ky.; and was then made Judge Advocate of the Military Commission and General Court Martial, at Lexington, Ky., which position he held till the end of the war, when he was ordered to Pulaski, Tenn., where he was mustered out of service 25 Sept. 1865. He was a member of the House of Representatives in the Michigan Legislature, in 1867–8; and in 1867, a member of the Convention to form a new constitution for the State of Michigan. He was appointed U. S. Inspector of Customs, at the city of Toronto, Ontario, Canada, 17 March 1875; and was engaged in the duties of the office in Aug. 1875.
